1 of 2 review helpful British Library Book By J Carr Bought this book for our daughter who visited the British Library with me some years ago I like it and think she will like it but didn't enjoy the written commentary as much as I thought I would. Tastes vary though and still think it is a nice book. The British Library holds one of the world's greatest collections of books and manuscripts spanning almost three millennia and from all parts of the world. They include such famous documents as The Lindisfarne Gospels, the Diamond Sutra, Gutenberg's 42 line Bible, the Magna Carta and Shakespeare's First Folio. Among the thousands of manuscripts are copies of some of the best known works of English Literature and world renowned collections of maps, music, stamps, photographs. About the Author: Philip Howard was Literary Editor of The Times from 1978-1990 and is still a regular contributor and leader writer for the newspaper. He is President of the Classical Association.
